1. Introduction

The role of e-learning courses in structuring the study curricula has been growing rapidly.

Main drivers:

- Increasing demand for higher education qualification
- Innovation in and increasing use of digital technologies
- Increasing demand of innovative and participatory-oriented teaching techniques based on involvement of students
- Increasing competition among Universities in attracting international students and getting higher international visibility (e.g., getting motivated students, more resources, reputation)
- Covid-19

Introduction

Two main types of e-learning courses:

1) Interactive e-learning courses

✓ e-modules delivered in pre-defined weeks/periods

- ✓ students' engagement
- ✓ teacher-student relationship
- ✓ collaborative learning

✓ final evaluation of students' performance by the teacher

✓ more dynamic

2) MOOC

✓ e-modules always accessible/available (asynchronous or in continuum)

- ✓ (in general) no direct interactions between students-teachers
- ✓ (in general) final self-evaluation
- ✓ more static

2. E-learning courses in Forest Sciences programs at UNIPD

General characteristics:

- Interactive e-learning activities: assigned tasks + individual/group work of the students + forums/online discussions (moderated-stimulated by the e-teacher)
- Moodle platform (open access)

E-learning courses in Forest Sciences programs at UNIPD

Our running courses:

- Since 2006: "Climate Change: Monitoring and Policies" (6 ECTS) EM MSc programs SUTROFOR & SUFONAMA
- ✓ ca. 20-25 students/year
- ✓ 2 e-moderators (1 teacher, 1 assistant)
- Since 2013: "Research Project Development and Methodology Applications" (4 ECTS) - EM MSc program MEDfOR
- ✓ ca. 10-25 students/year
- ✓ 1 e-moderator (teacher)

Participants:

- 171 involved participants & lecturers
- 156 enrolled participants
 - 67% students formally enrolled in a member University (BS, MSc and PhD)
 - 33% non students (e.g. entrepreneurs)
- 135 active participants
- 69 participants who completed the e-course (51.1 %)
- 26 nationalities (9 EU countries)

Level of satisfaction (anonymous evaluation form):

- 93% of participants are satisfied, the e-course met their expectations
- 78% of participants think there is not much duplication/repetition of contents with other courses

4/5

Why it is "a special case", i.e. why it differs from other e-learning courses we regularly deliver?

•Target includes entrepreneurs and more in general persons not necessarily enrolled as students in a University study curriculum/program

•Coordinated by Univ. Padova, but delivered with the contribution of other partner Universities (e-moderators of groups)

Relatively high number of participants

Implications of these types of e-learning courses for quality assurance at UNIPD

Positive/potential

- Diversification of the courses offered by the University
- Flexibility of the e-modules' schedule (time-complementing frontal lessons)
- Attraction of high number of participants from all over the world (visibility, resources)
- More inclusive teaching techniques: special support by our "Teaching4Learning@UNIPD" pedagogical specialized team, to increase the level of students' satisfaction and performance
- Easier involvement of experts/lecturers from other Universities/organisations

1/2

Implications of these types of e-learning courses for quality assurance at UNIPD

Negative/challenges

- Shorter/simplified scientific contents
- Need special skills (e.g., qualified e-moderators, communication/video design and recording teams)
- Need more resources than traditional courses (ideally there should be 1 e-moderator/lecturer every 10-12 students)
- Two different procedures needed:
 - ✓ for students: no attendance fees, transcript of records (ECTS registered)
 - ✓ for non-students: 109€ + VAT (co-financed by ECOSTAR project; 52 selfpaying participants), only a certificate of attendance issued by ETIFOR
- Currently, the formal recognition of ECTS and issuing of a certificate by Univ. Padova is not allowed for non-students
